HISTORY OF ITS ORGANIZATION-EXAMINA-TION OF THE OFFICERS-PRESENTATION OF DIPLOMAS BY GEN. SHERMAN-LIST OF GRADUATES.

FORTRESS MONROE, April 27 .- Gen. W. T. Sherman, Commander-in-Chief of the Army, accompanied by Col. Audenried, A. D. C., arrived here this morning. from Washington, for the purpose of being present at the closing exercises of the annual examination of the Artilery School, and presenting the diplomas to those of the officers who have just graduated. The School was organized and formally opened on the 1st of April, 1868, in accordance with General Orders No. 99 from the War De. partment, and was composed of the following companies

Battery G, 1st U.S. Artillery, Erevet Col. Guy P. Henry, commanding; Battery K, 2d U.S. Artillery, Brevet Col.
E.B. Williston, commanding; Battery A, 3d U.S. Artillery, Brevet Major J. P. Shriver, commanding; Battery
F, 4th Artillery, Brevet Major J.B. Campbell, commanding; Battery C, 5th Artillery, Brevet Major B. F. Rittenhouse, commanding.

Brevet Major-Gen. Barry, Colonel 2d Artillery, was assigned to the command of the school, with Brevet Brig. Gen. J. B. Roberts, Lieutenaut-Colonel 4th Artillery, and Brevet Brig.-Gen. Wm. Hayes, Major 5th Artillery, as in-Brevet Brig.-Gen. Wm. Hayes, Major sth Arthiery, as in-structors.

During the Summer months the school was occupied with practical artillery, mounting heavy ordnance, man-ufacturing shells, and the thousand and one details with which they should all be familiar. During the Winter months the studies were confined to theoretical artillery, embracing engineering, ordnance and gunnery, military and civil law, &c. The examinations on these branches were very severe, and the awards of each man's stand-ing were made out in a similar manner to those at West Point. The annual examination having just been com-pleted, Gen. Sherman signified his intention of visiting the schools, and arrived here this merning. He was met Point. The annual examination having just been completed, Gen. Sherman signified his intention of visiting the schools, and arrived here this morning. He was met at the wharf by the general commoding and staff, and a number of the efficiers of the school, who accompanied him into the fort. At 9 o'clock a. m. a salute of 17 gms was fired in honor of his arrival, and at 10 a. m. the troops were reviewed by Gen. Sherman. He made a thorough inspection of the men and their quarters. The General expressed himself highly pleased with everything he saw, and shortly afterward repaired to headquarters, where he received the officers of the School and their friends. At 5 o'clock in the evening the Band of the Artillery School stationed themselves in front of their hall, where the diplomas were to be presented, and began playing some beautiful operatic music. The hall which is large and nicely fitted up, soon filled up with the officers and their friends. Gen. Barney then arose, and made a short but pertinent address to the officers of the School. He spoke of the past year as being one of hard study to them, but hoped they had profited by their solours here, and in after years would look back with pride and pleasure upon the time spent at this post. He alluded to the fact that in a few days the officers would lave to rejoin their respective regiments, and hoped that they would still continue to study and advance in the noble science of artillery. He expressed his regret at parting with them, and hoped that success and promotion might attend them. Gen. Sherman then stepped forward to the table on which were placed the diplomas, and said that hefore going through the mechanical operation of presenting each man with his diploma, he had a few

MATCH-TAYLOR WINS BY TWO BIRDS ONLY. The match between these two famous pigeonshots for $1,000 a side and the championship, which had been prevented on Wednesday by the interference of Messrs. Kennedy and Bergh, was decided yesterday at the Secaucus Course, N. J. In consequence of the nupleasant weather in the forenoon, it was generally thought that the match would be postponed, and the limited attendance of spectators was to be attributed to this prevailing impression. Both men, however, were on hand, and anxious to have the affair decided, and the this prevailing impression. Both men, however, were on hand, and anxious to have the affair decided, and the rain clearing up about 2 o'clock p. m. the sport commenced. There was a large delegation of Mr. Tinker's friends from Rhode Island present, indeed they both out numbered the Jersey shocter's partisans, and out-bet them, for their confidence in their representative was unbounded, and they were unable to invest all the money they wished to on him. Still several hundred dollars were staked on the issue, and Mr. Taylor gave confidence to his backers by killing his first 13 birds in succession in fine style. Thiker missing his second, fifth, seventh, and tenth birds, and then killing 13 successively. The progress of the match can be best judged from the following notes. Taylor was four birds ahead on the 10th bird; three birds ahead on the 20th; the same on the 30th; four birds ahead on the 40th; its ahead on the 50th, or just one-half the number to be shot at. Taylor now began to fall off in his shooting, for of his next ten birds, he missed four, reducing his lead on the 60th to two birds only. Tinker at this stage of the match shooting splendidly, and killing 16 without a miss. On the 70th and 80th birds Taylor was still two birds ahead, although the scores were exactly even on the 76th bird. On the 90th bird, Taylor led by one bird only, but Tinker missing his 91st and 934, and Taylor his 91st, placed the latter two ahead. He did not lose this advantage, but killed his remaining nine birds and won the match by two birds only. A better contested match was never witnessed, and considering the high wind and bad weather, the shooting was excellent. Taylor killed 83 and Tunker 83 out of the 100 birds shot at by each party. A home-and-home match for a similar stake will probably be arranged.
